

Emotion Wheel & Feeling Vocabulary Guide

Write your thoughts, pause, or talk to a trusted adult whenever you feel ready.

Putting nuanced words to tangled or heavy feelings

WHAT IT FEELS LIKE

It is hard to process feelings when we only have words like 'fine' or 'bad'. Naming the specific emotion reduces its intensity and helps you communicate clearly.

GROUNDING RESET

Naming What's Underneath

Start with a core feeling: Sad, Scared, Angry, Overwhelmed. Trace inward to find the nuance: Abandoned? Overlooked? Disappointed? Misunderstood? Write: 'Right now, what I am truly feeling is...'

Take 3 slow breaths. You do not need to rush or figure everything out at once.
